

NEW PROGRAM

School Psychological Examiner Certification

Two options available:

- Post-master's certification through the post-graduate studies program
- Emphasis in the Master of Education in Counseling program

Students seeking School Psychological Examiner Certification must hold a Master's degree in Counseling, Education, Psychology, or Educational Psychology from an approved college or university. The program requires 24 hours of graduate coursework including 3 credit hours equivalent to 150 clock hours of Practicum. Equivalent coursework completed as part of the student's Master's degree requirements may count toward the School Psychological Examiner Certification requirements.
