About Stephens College

We embrace immersive, hands-on learning. From day one, our students learn by doing in their chosen field of study, whether that's working with children in our on-campus lab school, presenting their own research at our Health Science Conference, writing and editing for our national award-winning literary journal, or diving into filmmaking by getting behind the camera.

Crossing disciplines and designing your own major is easy to do at Stephens. For example, biology, communication design and psychology majors take equestrian classes to combine experience with large animals into a transcript that benefits vet school applications, marketing jobs with Patagonia and many types of therapy and clinical psychology professions.

Our academic programs incorporate portfolio building and experiential learning into the curriculum, and our 30,000+ alumnae and friends provide industry connections, helping 42% of our students complete two or more internships while in college. Our students have connections to industry leaders such as Under Armour, Disney, ELLE, ESPN, Simon & Schuster, Sony Pictures and many more. Stephens College takes seriously our commitment to prepare women for the workforce and for life.
